MediaWell

News Item

How a Tennessee Nurse Unwittingly Became the Face of an Anti-Vax Campaign | On The Media

By WNYC Studios
May 15, 2022

> On this week's show, we share an excerpt of a new podcast hosted by friend-of-the-show and NBC News reporter Brandy Zadrozny. The podcast follows one the the most viral and lingering conspiracy theories to come out of the pandemic. It all started when a nurse called Tiffany Dover fainted on camera after getting a Covid vaccine. She got right back up and gave another interview, but it was too late — a conspiracy theory was already racing around the world. In this first season of Truthers, a podcast project about misinformation and conspiracy theories, Brandy sets out to show what's true and what isn't—and how one person's life can become a weapon in a global information war. Listen and subscribe here: https://www.nbcnews.com/truthers-podcast
>
> […]

Source: How a Tennessee Nurse Unwittingly Became the Face of an Anti-Vax Campaign | On the Media