Request for Proposals | Polarization Research Lab

By Polarization Research Lab
August 15, 2022

> The Polarization Research Lab is very happy to announce that we have opened our first RFP for survey time. Similar in spirit to TESS, we are looking for innovative work on polarization, democratic/social norms, and political violence (all broadly defined). Proposals will be evaluated solely on scientific merit and will be awarded based on available survey space. Proposals will be blindly evaluated. Selected proposals will be fielded on YouGov as part of our weekly tracking survey. Proposals may be experimental or not. For expediency, we will only offer feedback to proposals selected for fielding.
