Amazon has removed products bearing Nazi and white supremacist symbols from its online store.

The retailer faced criticism for letting sellers offer a variety of far right-wing paraphernalia including clothing and jewellery.

Politicians and organisations that track hate groups identified several sellers offering the goods via Amazon.

Amazon said it had blocked the sellers, removed the items and was now checking for other similarly-themed goods.

Onesies with burning cross motifs, jewellery using the Nazi swastika as well as music and audio books pushing fascist views were found on Amazon's store.
