

Annotated Bibliography: Transnational Digital Repression | The Citizen Lab

By Noura Al-Jizawi, Siena Anstis, Sharly Chan, Adam Senft & Ron Deibert

November 9, 2020

This Annotated Bibliography compiles and summarizes relevant literature on “transnational digital repression” (i.e., where states seek to exert pressure—using digital tools—on citizens living abroad in order to constrain, limit, or eliminate political or social action that threatens regime stability or social and cultural norms within the country). While transnational repression itself is not a new phenomenon, there has been limited research on how such repression is enabled and expanded by digital tools.

[...]

Source: Annotated Bibliography: Transnational Digital Repression – The Citizen Lab