

Anti-vax content and vaccine misinformation is now banned on Facebook | Vox

By Rebecca Heilweil

February 9, 2021

Almost a year into the Covid-19 pandemic, Facebook is taking its strictest stance yet against vaccine misinformation by banning it entirely. The ban won't just apply to Covid-19 vaccine misinformation. That means, for instance, posts claiming that vaccines cause autism, or that measles can't kill people, are no longer allowed on Facebook. At the same time, the platform will also encourage Americans to get inoculated, and will direct people to information about when it's their turn for a Covid-19 vaccine and how to find an available dose.

[...]

Source: Anti-vax content and vaccine misinformation is now banned on Facebook | Vox