

Apple Will Start Reporting Government Requests to Remove Apps from the App Store | The Verge

By Ashley Carman

June 2, 2018

Apple issued one of its bi-annual transparency reports today, and apart from the usual numbers on account takedown requests, the company issued a statement saying that it'll soon start reporting government requests to take down apps from the App Store. These requests will relate to alleged legal and / or policy provision violations, Apple says.

Source: Apple will start reporting government requests to remove apps from the App Store | The Verge