

Big Tech pushes voter initiatives to counter misinformation | Axios

By Sara Fischer & Ashley Gold

August 17, 2020

Tech giants are going all in on civic engagement efforts ahead of November's election to help protect themselves in case they're charged with letting their platforms be used to suppress the vote.

Why it matters: During the pandemic, there's more confusion about the voting process than ever before. Big tech firms, under scrutiny for failing to stem misinformation around voting, want to have concrete efforts they can point to so they don't get blamed for letting an election be manipulated.

[...]

Source: Big Tech pushes voter initiatives to counter misinformation | Axios