Comparing Platform Hate Speech Policies: Reddit's Inevitable Evolution | Stanford Internet Observatory

By Adriana Stephan

July 8, 2020

> On Monday, June 30, 2020, Reddit updated its policy on hate speech. As part of research for a forthcoming book based on the Stanford Internet Observatory's Trust and Safety Engineering course, we present a comparative assessment of platform policies and enforcement practices on hate speech, and discuss how Reddit fits into this framework.
