

Facebook allows war posts urging violence against Russian invaders | Reuters

By Munsif Vengattil and Elizabeth Culliford

March 11, 2022

March 10 (Reuters) - Meta Platforms (FB.O) will allow Facebook and Instagram users in some countries to call for violence against Russians and Russian soldiers in the context of the Ukraine invasion, according to internal emails seen by Reuters on Thursday, in a temporary change to its hate speech policy.

The social media company is also temporarily allowing some posts that call for death to Russian President Vladimir Putin or Belarusian President Alexander Lukashenko, according to internal emails to its content moderators.

[...]

Source: Facebook allows war posts urging violence against Russian invaders | Reuters