

Far-right activists using Twitter new rule against anti-extremist researchers | The Washington Post

By Drew Harwell

December 3, 2021

Neo-Nazis and far-right activists have coached followers on how to abuse a new Twitter rule to force the service to remove photos of them shared by anti-extremism researchers and journalists.

Advocates said they worry the new policy will suppress efforts to document the activities of the far right and will prove to be a gift to members of hateful movements eager to keep their identities concealed.

[...]

Source: Far-right activists using Twitter new rule against anti-extremist researchers | The Washington Post