News Item

Job Opening | Assistant, Associate, or Full Professor at the Information School – University of Washington

By University of Washington

November 14, 2019

> The University of Washington Information School seeks a truly outstanding scholar to broaden and deepen our research and scholarship in areas including, but not limited to: studies of misinformation and disinformation, including computational, mixed-methods approaches, etc.; information access and data literacy; information flow in sociotechnical systems; the role of information in the formation and dynamics of values, beliefs, or identities (race, gender, class, ability, etc.); and the role of researchers, educators, librarians, and policy makers in supporting healthy information environments and fostering a more informed and equitable society.
>
> [...]

Source: Faculty Employment Opportunities | Information School | University of Washington