

Job Opening | Doctoral Student, Vienna Doctoral School of Social Sciences

By Author on Source

June 10, 2020

The Vienna Doctoral School of Social Sciences promotes innovative, excellent, problem-oriented research that aspires to contribute to societal debates and address key global challenges.

The cohorts trained and supported by ViDSS are part of a vibrant research environment and international networks. ViDSS encompasses and fosters connections between a broad range of disciplinary, interdisciplinary and transdisciplinary perspectives. ViDSS embraces the entire range of epistemological, methodological and theoretical approaches that are employed at the Faculty of Social Sciences. Doctoral candidates receive research training and write a doctoral thesis in the fields of communication science, demography, development studies, nursing science, political science, science and technology studies, social and cultural anthropology, and sociology. ViDSS aims for the highest standards in doctoral training and close supervision to ensure a mastery of social scientific debates and relevant theories and methods. As a result, ViDSS graduates are highly employable both within and outside academia.

The Vienna Doctoral School of Social Sciences officially starts on 1 October 2020.

[...]