

Job Opportunity: Deputy Director and Research Manager | CAT Lab

By CAT Lab: Cornell University

February 19, 2021

With this new funding, CAT Lab can now build a team that will work together with communities and collaborators on these exciting projects. We are hiring two positions: a Deputy Director and a (postdoc) Research Manager. We also plan to announce a data engineer position soon, so keep an eye out for future announcements!

Deputy Director: The Deputy Director will build Citizens and Technology Lab (CAT) Lab alongside the PI, focusing on strategy, organization building, management, and administration. We are seeking a creative institution-builder who is energized to imagine and establish a public-interest research organization within one of the world's leading universities. Read the posting on WorkDay.

Research Manager (Postdoctoral Associate): The Research Manager's primary responsibility is to manage the overall portfolio of CAT Lab studies, in collaboration with the CAT Lab team. The Research Manager will also have opportunities to develop and lead individual research projects at the intersection of community goals and your own research interests. Read the posting on Academic Jobs Online.

[...]

Source: Job Opportunity: Deputy Director and Research Manager | CAT Lab