The Platform Governance Research Network (PGRN) is looking for a part-time Network Coordinator to manage and help build our growing global network of organizations and individuals. We are looking for a collaborative and detail-oriented individual to help with research and provide editorial support in writings and briefings emerging from our First Annual Conference of the Platform Governance Research Network. The Network Coordinator would also be responsible for coordinating network members and meetings, providing additional logistical support for network members, and for communicating updates about the PGRN (as well as doing some moderation) on our relevant communication channels (including Slack, listservs, and Twitter).
