By Open Society Foundations

August 18, 2022

Do you want to help challenge the rising tide of digital authoritarianism across the world? We're seeking a Program Officer to join our team confronting digital repression globally: including by expanding the space for journalists, human rights defenders and citizens to communicate, mobilize and hold power to account.

The successful candidate will play a pivotal role in evolving and implementing the strategy for this area of work, carry out all relevant stages of grant making, and conduct advocacy on behalf of OSF as appropriate. We expect the candidate to bring sharp strategic thinking, strong communication skills, a commitment to collaboration, and deep knowledge of the issues of cybersecurity, surveillance, censorship and the geopolitics of technology policy.
