

Job Opportunity: Research Coordinator | Hacks/Hackers

December 15, 2021

Hacks/Hackers is looking for a Project Area Research Coordinator to help us wrangle research communications and resources for a software prototype aimed at helping users engage in conversations around vaccine efficacy. A little bit about the project can be found here.

This is a temporary full-time, remote role for six months, which may be extended should the project gain additional funding. Applications will be reviewed starting November 22, 2021 on a rolling basis until the position is filled. The position start date is January 10, 2022.
