

Models for Platform Governance | Centre for International Governance Innovation

By Centre for International Governance Innovation

October 28, 2019

Google, Facebook and Amazon serve billions of users around the globe and increasingly perform core functions in society. The private gains are obvious — these are among the most profitable companies in history. But they come with a cost: platforms threaten our social fabric, our economy and our democracy. To begin to address this, CIGI has convened leading thinkers to explore new models for platform governance.

[...]

Source: Models for Platform Governance | Centre for International Governance Innovation