January 13, 2022

The Berkman Klein Center for Internet & Society at Harvard University is now accepting fellowship applications for the 2022-2023 academic year through our open call. This opportunity is for scholars who wish to spend 2022-2023 in residence in Cambridge, MA as part of the Center's vibrant community of research and practice, and who seek to engage in collaborative, cross-disciplinary, and cross-sectoral exploration of the Internet's most important issues.

We have refined a number of elements of our fellowship program. Drawing on our experience engaging fellows over the last twenty+ years, we seek to make our fellowship more sustainable for participants while preserving the range of opportunities and special environment that fellows have both benefited from and worked to build. Information about our 2022-2023 program is detailed below.

We look forward to bringing together an exceptional cohort of fellows in the coming year!

Applications will be accepted until Monday, January 31, 2022, at 11:59pm Eastern Time.
