

Reddit's largest remaining Trump community banned for "inciting violence" | Ars Technica

By Sam Machkovech

January 12, 2021

On Friday, Reddit joined this week's response to violent online rhetoric as spearheaded by President Donald Trump and removed its "r/donaldtrump" community, the site's largest existing community dedicated specifically to Trump. Visiting any of that community's pages now leads to a simple message pointing to Reddit's rules about "inciting violence," which starts by saying, "Do not post violent content."

[...]

Source: [Reddit's largest remaining Trump community banned for "inciting violence" \[Updated\] | Ars Technica](#)