

Republican candidates are spreading more fake news than just two years ago | The Washington Post

By Maggie Macdonald and Megan A. Brown

August 30, 2022

Over the last several years, there's been a considerable increase in media coverage about misinformation and conspiracy theories in politics.

The media has routinely reported on these falsehoods, making it seem like misinformation is rampant in politics. But are candidates for Congress actually sharing more misinformation in 2022 than 2020?

[...]

Source: Republican candidates are spreading more fake news than just two years ago - The Washington Post