

Russia is interfering in our elections again. And Trump supporters are emulating Russian tactics. | Washington Post

By Evelyn Farkas

May 19, 2020

In 2017, I cautioned that any candidate for office who was outspoken about Russia ought to worry about Russian interference in their election. At the time, I had no idea I would be one of those candidates. But this month, I saw my face plastered on a screen behind Fox News host Tucker Carlson as he, not for the first time, made false statements about me.

U.S. national security experts warned years ago that Russia would meddle in our 2020 elections. The reality is worse: President Trump's supporters are mirroring Russian tactics.

[...]

Source: Russia is interfering in our elections again. And Trump supporters are emulating Russian tactics. | Washington Post