

The contraception mandate is back at the Supreme Court — and so is the right-wing misinformation | Media Matters for America

By Julie Tulbert

May 5, 2020

On May 6, the Supreme Court will hear arguments in Little Sisters v. Pennsylvania (consolidated with Trump v. Pennsylvania), a case concerning the Affordable Care Act's mandated health insurance coverage of contraception. Right-wing media and abortion opponents continue to push misinformation about the contraception mandate, even though it has been modified by previous court decisions to address concerns, and have been claiming that it violates the religious liberty of religiously affiliated organizations.

[...]

Source: The contraception mandate is back at the Supreme Court — and so is the right-wing misinformation | Media Matters for America