

The Life Cycle Of A COVID-19 Vaccine Lie | NPR

By Geoff Brumfiel

July 20, 2021

Misinformation about COVID-19 vaccines can appear almost anywhere: From an uncle's social media post to a well-trusted news commentator. But where does it come from and why do some myths spread further than others?

With the help of the Internet research firm Graphika, NPR analyzed the rise of one persistent set of lies about COVID-19 vaccines: That they can affect female fertility.
